Think about your pension – AS OF NOW!

During your working life, you may temporarily reduce or interrupt your professional activity: to raise a child, deal with a personal situation or following a career change.

To ensure that these exceptional periods do not affect your pension rights, it is essential to plan ahead and understand the rules governing the calculation of these rights, as well as to be aware of the options for supplementing them if necessary.

In this context, solutions are available to take action as of now, on a voluntary basis, by complementing your affiliation to the pension insurance scheme. These measures allow you to compensate for incomplete career periods in order to strengthen your future rights.

Since the 2018 divorce reform, an additional measure also allows people going through divorce proceedings due to irretrievable breakdown of their marriage to retroactively buy back insurance periods corresponding to years of reduced or interrupted activity during the marriage.

This brochure presents the various options available so that you can make informed choices that are tailored to your current situation and future needs.

SUPPLEMENTARY INSURANCE

You have reduced the hours you work and wish to top up your pension insurance affiliation?

Supplementary insurance allows you to supplement the contributions paid to mandatory pension insurance.

What conditions must you satisfy?

You must provide proof of 12 months' mandatory affiliation during the 36 months preceding the request.

How much will your monthly payments for continued, optional or supplementary insurance amount to?

You may choose between 5 options as to the basis of contributions:

1. One third of the minimum social wage, for a maximum period of 60 months.
2. The minimum social wage.
3. Double the minimum social wage.
4. Your personal ceiling, calculated by the Joint social Security Centre (Centre commun de la sécurité sociale - CCSS), which will be based on the average of your 5 highest annual salaries for which you paid contributions in your insurance career.
5. An amount chosen between the minimum social wage and your personal ceiling.

Your monthly contributions will amount to 16% of the selected option.

As a matter of principle, all contributions paid to pension insurance are deductible for tax purposes.

You reduced the hours you worked or stopped working altogether for family reasons in the past?

You wish to cover pension insurance periods retroactively with a view to having them counted as insurance and waiting periods required for the grant of an old-age pension at the age of 65 or an early old-age pension at the age of 60.

What conditions must you satisfy?

You need to prove 12 months of mandatory insurance.

You must neither be over 65 nor have the right to a personal pension.

The period to be repurchased must be from the age of eighteen years and cover periods:

- of marriage / partnership,
- of bringing up a minor child,
- of assistance and care provided to a person recognised as dependent or severely disabled in Luxembourg.

How much will the retroactive purchase come to?

You determine the months covered by the retroactive purchase and fix the basis of contributions to be taken into account. Your contribution basis may be either the minimum social wage or multiples of 1.5, 2.0 and 2.5 of this minimum.

The amount of the contributions to be paid is set at 16% of the basis chosen, increased by 4% compound interest per year. This retroactive purchase can be paid in a maximum of 5 annual instalments.

As a matter of principle, all contributions paid to pension insurance are deductible for tax purposes.

Please note that only one retroactive purchase can be accepted for the same period.

REPAYMENT

You obtained a reimbursement of contributions before 1991 and want to reactivate these periods?

What conditions must you satisfy?

You must neither be over the age of 65 nor be entitled to a personal pension.

How much will the amount of the repayment come to?

The repayment comprises the amount of the contributions reimbursed, plus 4% compound interest per year from the year following the reimbursement.

As a matter of principle, all contributions repaid are deductible for tax purposes.

Comment faire ?

You can download the form from the website: cnap.lu

Duly completed requests should be sent to the CNAP.

During your marriage, you stopped working altogether or reduced the hours you worked and you are in proceedings for divorce on the ground of the irretrievable breakdown of conjugal relations?

Since 1 November 2018 a new measure has been introduced, allowing you to buy pension insurance periods retroactively.

What conditions must you satisfy?

- You must have reduced the hours you worked or given up working altogether during your marriage.
- You must neither be over the age of 65 nor have the right to a personal pension.

How much will the retroactive purchase amount to?

The amount of your retroactive purchase is based on the reference amount, constituting the difference between the respective incomes of the spouses during the period when you gave up work or reduced your working hours. The court requested to make this calculation determines the incomes and the period to be taken into consideration.

Payment will be made as part of the liquidation and sharing of the common or undivided property available.

How?

During the divorce proceedings, your lawyer applies to the court to calculate the reference amount.
